We know Allied Professionals.

We know Recruiting.

These days, if you need to find top travel allied professionals to fill your needs, you have to do more than post a newspaper ad or conduct a quick internet search. In fact, the market is so under saturated with the professionals you need, methods once considered easy and convenient are now more bothersome than ever. And, if you actually can find the time and resources to conduct your own hiring searches, how are you going to find the candidates in today's market?

That's why, at Voyage Staffing, we spend all day, everyday searching and screening the professionals you need. And we connect this talent with companies like yours. We look for exceptional character as well as expert credentials to help make your job of finding the right candidate much easier.

The Voyage Staffing offices are managed by professionals with over 25 years of combined industry specific experience, accompanied with cutting edge technology and sophisticated recruitment processes that greatly improve our rate of success. We use our knowledge of the allied healthcare industry to give our clients the most qualified candidates possible.

How we do it.

Constant Recruiting.

Unlike the healthcare facilities we represent, we are able to recruit all the time. It's all we do. With dedicated recruitment professionals interviewing candidates hundreds of times every day, our pool of qualified professionals grows significantly every hour. And that is just the humans who work for us. Our computer systems are continually generating qualified leads 24 hours per day, helping us to give our clients multiple options for their open positions, as well as to improve our database of traveling professionals.

Having the Best Staffing Professionals.

Every employee at Voyage goes through a rigorous training program focused specifically on Allied Healthcare. Because of this training, our staff understands exactly what our clients are looking for, and they also know where to go to find results. The Voyage Staffing team will...

- Qualify specific skills to match employer needs
- Assist employers in identifying key features and benefits for attracting candidates
- Assure all necessary documentation and records are collected
- Identify salary trends and offer tips on hiring, interviewing and retaining great professionals

Specializing in Allied Healthcare.

Voyage Staffing is positive that when a staffing company conducts a candidate search for a healthcare facility, that the hospital expects to get the most for their money. So we understand the need for "specialization" in order to achieve our client's expectations. Hospitals have confidence in us because we only focus on these areas of Allied Healthcare. (This keeps our focus narrow so that the quality we bring never suffers.)

Give Options.

We offer both travel and full-time staffing solutions because not every healthcare professional wants the same type of opportunity, and every hospital has different needs. So whether the hospital needs a traveler to cover for a recent vacancy, or a healthcare professional has decided on a new home town, we customize our search to the specific needs of both the professional and the hospital. Ultimately it is our goal to find the perfect job for the perfect employee!

Assure Quality and Compliance.

We maintain the highest quality standards and assure that JCAHO requirements are satisfied on every placement. Our technology requires that all required data be collected on every candidate prior to submission to any job opening. If anything is missing, the system flags the item and halts the submission until the missing information has been collected. If that wasn't enough, our client facilities can be given access to the files for every candidate who has been submitted and/or has worked at their facility, simply by assigning them a login and a password. You will have instant access to all records and no need to call and track them down! Call us for a demo.

Everyone at Voyage Staffing has a passion for people. We love meeting and talking to new people to find out their career goals and company needs. In fact, at Voyage Staffing, networking is something we do 24/7. We also establish and build quality relationships through our membership affiliations with a variety of industry associations.

Whether you're ready to start putting our professionals to work for you, or just want some more information on any of our services, contact Voyage Staffing today.
